Brief-Case Suspects

We may do an occasional injustice to a perfectly innocent person, but the prudent man endeavors to be on the safe side, and we always avoid any one with a brief-case, if possible, on the theory that he's probably either a lawyer or an efficiency expert.—Ohio State Journal.

Woman Makes Home Atop London Bridge

London—"The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe" must yield pride of place in picturesque residences to Mrs. David Frater, who lives in a flat at the top of one of the arches of the Tower bridge, London. Tower bridge is a "drawbridge" and needs a resident official to set the machinery in motion to raise the vehicular-traffic bridge when big ships want to pass under, and the only place for a residence is at the top of the towers.

Mrs. Frater is the wife of a bridge official, and she makes light of the 86 steps up the spiral staircase which have to be traversed when she wants to go into the outer world.

She enjoys the finest view in London, for one of the diamond-paned windows of her airy home looks onto the gray old Tower of London, and the others look over the Thames.

"There are four nice, big living rooms," she says, "and underneath there is an enormous room which stretches right across the arch. I use that room to hang out my washing, and it's better than a backyard."

No Baggage on Rio Cars

In Rio Janeiro there are strict limitations on the amount of baggage that may be carried by a passenger in boarding a street car. He may not ride on certain cars with a grip, valise, bag or similar article larger than a vanity case. Neither can he travel in a first-class street car apartment without a coat. Also it is required that all passengers wear socks when boarding the cars.

Broken Umbrella

One rainy day as I was going to work my wife gave me an umbrella which was broken. It would open without pressing the button. Thinking it was better than nothing on a rainy day I took it. When I got on the street car it was crowded so I had to stand. Suddenly the umbrella opened up and with it lifted the dresses of the women around. I was never so embarrassed in all my life.—G. W. in Chicago Tribune.

TEMPERANCE WOMEN MEET IN THIS CITY

Mrs. Graham Chosen Delegate to Los Angeles—Mrs. Gussman Alternate.

A most inspiring and helpful convention of Pickaway county W. C. T. U., was held in the Methodist Episcopal church, Ashville, Thursday, April 22.

The meeting was in charge of County President Mrs. Lucy B. Price and opened with the song, "Lead on, Oh King Eternal."

Mrs. Brintlinger had charge of the devotions, reading part of the 8th chapter of Nehemiah and Mrs. Cline led in prayer. Roll call was followed by appointment of committee, followed by a reading "Green Hands" by Mrs. Bessie Long.

The next item on the program was a demonstration of the State Plan of Work. This was divided into three parts; first Membership, in charge of Mrs. Adda Prushing, of Ashville. This was very well done, being a dialogue of her own composition, and she was assisted by Mrs. Hazel Cloud. The second part, Magazines, was given by Miss Mary Harpster, of Kingston. This was composed by Miss Harpster herself, very cleverly written boosting the W. C. T. U. paper "The Union Signal." A little girl was dressed in a dress of the "Young Crusader" also was with her. The third part "Money" was in charge of Mrs. Abbie Gussman, county treasurer, who gave a fine representation of the six funds with the assistance of six other ladies. The three parts were interspersed with music also a solo "Give" by Mrs. Alma Boor.

The demonstration of the five departments Y. P. B. S. T. L. Publicity, Scientific Temperance and Peace and International Arbitration was given by the five leaders of the work. After some remarks and reading of clippings by the president, the meeting adjourned with the noontide prayer by Mrs. Dunlap.

A delightful social hour followed in the basement with a picnic luncheon and hot coffee served by the Ashville Union.

There was an executive meeting held during the noon hour at which time Miss Etta Graham of Harrisburg was elected delegate to the National W. C. T. U. convention in Los Angeles in September. Mrs. Abbie Gussman was elected alternate.

The afternoon session opened with singing, "America, the Beautiful," Mrs. Alma Boor leading. Mrs. Wright had charge of the devotions and led in prayer. A playlet followed; "Aunt Columbia's Query," led by Mrs. Mary Alexander in which ten other ladies took part. This was what prominent folks thought about prohibition in the United States.

The departmental representation then continued, the following being represented, who gave short talks or read letters, etc. Anti-Narcotics, Christian Citizenship, Evangelistic, Health, Temperance and Missions, Flower Mission, Institutions, Legislation, Medical Temperance, Contests Parliamentary Usage, Sabbath Observance, Social Morality, Child Welfare, Sunday school, Soldiers and Sailors, and Bible in Public School.

This was followed by an allegiance march in which all took part marching around the church, an inspiring sight. Rev. Sudlow brought greetings as did Rev. Ricketts. Solo, "World Wide Joy" Mrs. Boor.

After a splendid report of the mid-year by the president the meeting closed with the W. C. T. U. benediction.

Odd Plea Wins

TODAY'S BUSINESS

America's Markets.

Notable changes in the order of America's markets are revealed in the analysis of Our World Trade for 1925 made by the Department of Foreign Commerce of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. While, in the main, the world's purchasing capacity has generally increased, some countries have made more progress than others in this respect.

"Seventy-nine per cent of our chief markets," the Foreign Commerce Department of the national chamber says, "made larger purchases from us in 1925 than in 1924. The five leading markets in 1925, Great Britain, Canada, Germany, France and Japan, constituting 54.2 per cent of our total exports, also were the five leading in 1924 in the same order. The positions of the next five changed considerably: Italy became our sixth chief market, displacing Cuba; Argentina moved up from eleventh to eighth place, the Netherlands dropping to eleventh place; and Australia became our ninth market, displacing Mexico. These first ten markets purchased 71.4 per cent of our exports; only 3 of the 10, France, Japan and Cuba, decreased their purchases from us."

Sweater of Jersey Is Striped in Tan, Henna

The skirt of this sport outfit is of henna jersey banded with tan, the sweater of jersey evenly striped in tan and henna. With the outfit is worn a new type of cowboy hat, the color being tan.

Cape Promises to Be Favorite for Spring

According to Worth, capes are to be the fashionable wrap of the season. He shows a great number of them both separately and as part of ensembles. Chiffon is the favorite fabric for capes, which proves that they are expected to be more ornamental than useful, though Worth often trims them with fur either gray or beige.

A gray kasha ensemble has a straight coat that is trimmed with a double line of dark blue applique in turrets at the hip line. The bottom of the coat from hips to hem is of black leather. The dress beneath has a dark blue jumper applied with gray and the gray skirt is plaited. Another gray ensemble is in three shades and is equipped with a cape that has a deep point of henna suede at the shoulders at the back. The dress is provided with a henna suede belt to match. The three tones are used in 12-inch stripes.

Quite charming is an afternoon frock in rose-colored crepe de chine, with a handkerchief collar of printed chiffon, a chiffon scarf at the waist and a full gathered overskirt of chiffon. With this dress a full gathered chiffon cape is worn which, like the dress trimmings, is printed with tiny circles of beige, red and black.

The jumper idea is carried out in an evening gown of silver cloth with a plaited skirt. With this is worn a chiffon cape printed in two shades of rose and having the design emphasized by sequin embroidery.

Fringe Used Lavishly by Paris Designers

In this season of engaging variation, fringe is used lavishly by some of the best designers of Paris. Vionnet, who long has specialized, so to speak, in the fringed gown, is doing some of uncommon charm. Other interesting models are received from Drecol, Worth, Patou, Lelong and Boulanger. American women are greatly intrigued by the fringed gown, and some designs of much grace and elegance are being created by artists on this side.

Another type of evening dress for the spring is the paradoxical "jumper" frock. This virtual sports design is amusingly reproduced in metal tissues, brocades, gilt and silver lace, and in sheer materials with heavy lace, and embroidery. The silhouette is absolutely straight, the dressy quality of the costume being in the fabrics and trimming, the nonexistence of sleeves and the decollete neck.

The quilted coats seen in white and the pastel shades among the displays of southern wear now are among the spring offerings.

These come in short and full lengths and in straight or flared models. A short red coat quilted in gold is further embellished with gold painting along black satin. Coat has a deep quilted border at bottom and sleeve edges stitched in silver and a gray satin lining. The two-in-one idea is carried out in a long red taffeta coat quilted in white stitching with the reverse side of white taffeta stitched in red.

The quilted silk hat also promises to be popular. The shapes are varied and particularly good.

Metropolitan shops are featuring a smart draped toque in quilted satin, with a handsome pouch bag to match.

SOLON WOULD LET EXTREME DRY TRY HAND

La Guardia, New York Says Test of Several Months Would Convince Modification Needed.

Washington, April 25.—Tactics of the wets at the senate prohibition hearing which closed yesterday, were attacked again today by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, who explained in a statement that he refrained from taking the witness stand because of the "wets" plan to use up the "dry" time by my cross-examination.

"I planned to take the stand," he said, "until it was evident what the wet plans were, and when the committee in charge of our part of the hearings agreed we would circumvent them."

Without mentioning Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who was the wet prosecutor and cross-examiner, Wheeler declared that "as it was a large part of the dries' time was consumed by filibuster cross-examination."

Wheeler's statement and another by Representative LaGuardia, Progressive-Socialist, of New York, served to break the Sunday lull in the wake of the heated course of the hearing.

LaGuardia suggested that Wheeler be appointed Prohibition director, with a staff of officers approved by the "extreme dry advocates" and given until January or February to "do anything they desire to enforce this law."

What will you have to show in future years for today's shopping dollars?

A JEWELRY PURCHASE IS AN INVESTMENT IN PERMANENT VALUES

THE old copy-books of our school days declared that you can't eat your cake and have it.

Which is another way of saying that you can't spend your money, and keep it too!

But the copy-book editors overlooked the money spent at the jewelry store.

On the typical purchase from the jeweler, you draw an income of pleasure and satisfaction, year after year, while still retaining much of the principal, in easily convertible value. For the shopping dollars entrusted to the jeweler are not spent, but invested, in a permanent addition to your estate.

Value-wise shoppers today think twice, before they barter their purses for short-lived baubles. For they know that even for the modest pocket book, the jeweler's stock is rich in articles, both of utility and adornment, that will last through a lifetime.

Building up a line of jewelry means building up a heritage for the decades; quick asset possessions that are a tangible and enduring evidence of one's success and achievement.

LAST SURVIVOR OF JORN BROWN'S BAND IS CALLED

By Death—Luke F. Parsons, Aid
To Famous Abolitionist, Dies
After an Eventful, Romantic Life—Missed
Big Raid.

Salina, Kan., April 25.—Death that he had confronted so often as a youth, Friday laid its hand on Luke F. Parsons, 93, last survivor of the famous John Brown Band of slavery days. The old free stater had been ill for several weeks.

When Parsons came West into Kansas in the spring of 1856, the country was in the throes of the free state-slave state agitation. He joined the famous abolitionist, John Brown and his five sturdy sons in their fight to make Kansas a free state, and was with him in all of his battles with the border raiders who sought to control Kansas politics and to extend slavery into the state.

Although selected by Brown as one of his ten picked men for the raid into Virginia at Harper's Ferry, Parsons could not be with him and thus probably escaped the fate that befell that little party. He was in Colorado at the time whither the gold rush had taken him.

Parsons was day clerk at the famous Eldridge or Free State Hotel at Lawrence, Kansas, when it was burned by Quantrill's band, the printing presses destroyed and the town sacked.

In the attack on Fort Titus, near Lecompton, Kan., the headquarters of the border raiders, Parsons was wounded. In that action the first two balls fired from an old brass cannon were molded from type picked up around the newspaper offices in Lawrence, following Quantrill's raid. As the shots rang out the captain in charge of the attack cried, "Those are the second edition of the Herald Freedom, one of the newspapers destroyed at Lawrence. How do you like it, eh?"

In the battle of Osawatimie, Kan., fought Aug. 31, 1856, Brown had but a handful of men to oppose more than 400 border raiders from Missouri. Parsons and ten other men were selected by Brown to hold a blockhouse. "Take more pains to end life well than to live long," Parsons was told by Brown when they went into the fray.

Following the hanging of Brown, Parsons became the first sheriff of Salina County, Kan. He entered the Sixth Kansas Cavalry at the outbreak of the Civil war, serving nearly four years.

The latter part of his life was spent on a farm near here. A few years ago he moved into Salina.

SAYS MOTORIST IS BEST WALKER

Driving Has Taught Them Lessons of Safe Pedestrianism, Says Smith.

Whoever may be impressed with the idea that automobilism is making people forget how to walk will do well to revise that impression.

This is the conclusion reached by Ernest N. Smith, general manager of the American Automobile association, after gathering some statistics on the subject and making some personal observations.

Few Drivers Caught.

According to Mr. Smith, comparatively few automobile drivers are caught off their guard when walking, a majority of pedestrian accidents involving persons who have had no experience in handling cars.

"Automobilism is teaching people how to walk safely," he explains. "An active motorist is also an active walker, for in using the car he has additional need for walking in congested districts. He knows which way to look when he steps across a one-way street, and when crossing at crossings he is aware of the ever-present hazard of the car that is making a right-hand turn."

"When the automobile driver walks he does it in a competent manner, and when he crosses streets at police intersections he makes allowances for the inability of the officer to look out for every one. Automobilism shows the motorist a perfect picture of the danger he faces as a pedestrian, and so when he walks he conducts himself accordingly."

No Judge of Distance.

"Persons who do not drive motor cars have no conception of speed or stopping distance. They see traffic from a narrow angle, being unable to see hazards in their proper proportions. The real dangers often escape their attention while they are busy worrying over things that would not be likely to harm them."

"Automobilism is not making people forget how to walk. On the contrary, it is making them learn to walk in a way that befits the modern age."

Reckless Driving Cause of Many Auto Accidents

The number injured and killed in auto and motor-cycle accidents is appalling. Most of these accidents can be accounted for by reckless driving. The worst of it is that the innocent suffer with the guilty, whether riding with the reckless driver or in the other car.

It is a great temptation when out on a fine country road to "let 'er out." The width of the road, the curves, the traffic, have everything to do with safety when going in a swift moving car. A safe speed in one place may be a very dangerous speed in another place not far distant. National prohibition will reduce accidents considerably.

Every driver ought to feel some responsibility for the safety of those riding with him and others using the highways. The day of regret is bound to come to every reckless driver. The intent to kill may not be there, and no jury can bring in a verdict of murder, yet the results are the same. Speeding ceases to be a joke when it ends in a permanent injury or a death. The guilty one can never get away from the remorse of that moment of careless driving.—Successful Farming.

Leak in Vacuum Feed

In cars using vacuum feed a leak in the line running to the inlet manifold may interfere with proper operation of the engine at high speed though not at low. The reduced vacuum in the tank, caused by leak, results in less fuel being lifted than is ordinarily the case, and with a wide-open throttle, let us say, on a hard pull, the engine demand will be greater than the supply, which means spitting and possibly stopping of the engine.

Replacing Brake Lining Is Not Difficult Task

To replace a brake lining, the bands or shoes are taken off, the axle is placed in a vise, while the rivets are knocked off with a cold chisel or hammer. New strips of the lining fabric are cut to size. Beginning then at one end of the strip, two or three rivet holes are located with a blue pencil and cut with a punch, after which the fabric is put in position on the shoe.

Medium hard rivets, to prevent scoring of the drums, are passed through the holes and are then headed down securely at the back of the band. They must be sunk well into the fabric lining, so that no projections are left. With the strip held tightly to prevent wrinkling, and with the band at its original curvature, the next hole is marked, punched and riveted in the same way.

The operator simply keeps on around until the entire strip of lining is riveted down into place on the shoe. The braking systems of our modern cars are efficient enough under ordinary circumstances, but they are not powerful enough to allow a margin for slack maintenance. They must be kept right up to the mark, and systematic inspections and repairs when needed are dictated by common sense.

Lost Compression Quite Disagreeable to Drive

Do not allow your engine to lose compression. It is disagreeable to the good driver and creates a larger running expense, causing loss of fuel and power. The careful motorist will check up on compression in each cylinder at regular intervals, opening all priming cups or removing all spark plugs, one at a time, and revolving crank. If the cylinder which has its priming cup closed or plug inserted resists to a good extent, his efforts to revolve the engine, that cylinder has good compression. All cylinders can be tested in the same manner, closing priming cups and replacing spark plugs in each cylinder when the test is completed. There are other methods for testing, such as listening for hissing noises on compression strokes of pistons, allowing the car to go down hill with ignition turned off and with transmission in low or second speeds to note the resistance of the movement of the car which each cylinder offers, or a compression gauge may be used.

Getting Out of Sand

When a car is driven into a sandy spot in the road and the rear wheels spin there is no use in keeping on spinning them. The more the wheels spin the deeper the car sinks in the sand and the more difficult it will be to get it out. If no rope or burlap is available, deflate the tires and with the gears in first engage the clutch slowly. If this doesn't help, get two wooden planks and place them behind the rear wheels.

Means Pep in the Engine

Did you ever wonder why the engine does not show the accustomed pep or why the lights burn dimly or the ignition seems poor? Unfasten the wires and bars at the battery terminals and notice if they are clean. They must be clean if current is to flow freely. Scrape off with a stick any green or white deposit you see, and spread a little cup grease over the parts to prevent corrosion.

Horn Saves Car

Sounding the horn upon approaching the crest is splendid insurance against a head-on collision. The wise motorist is sensible enough not to be on the wrong side of the road in the act of passing another car at the crest of a steep hill, but he never knows but that the "other fellow" may be doing it on the other side. The modern motorist has to be his brother's keeper for his own safety.

Use for Old Files

Frequently it is necessary for the car owner who does his own repair work to file a piece of cast iron that has been subjected to friction and so has acquired a glaze or skin. The best way to get through this skin is to use the edges of an old file. If a new file is used on this sort of surface it is likely to be ruined.

Advancement in Burma

"The road to Mandalay" is now the path to knowledge, for the first agricultural college in Burma has been opened there. The student body of the opening class numbers 84, enrolled for a four-year course. A farm of 600 acres has been provided, for the working out of problems connected with tropical agriculture. A special project will be the building up of a pedigreed breed of pure Burma cattle.

Laws Against Profanity

In 1794 the Pennsylvania legislature passed an act providing that any person over sixteen years blaspheming, cursing, or profaning the name of Almighty God should be fined the sum of 67 cents or be confined in the house of correction 24 hours. In 1804 it was amended that the perpetration of a curse or oath involved a penalty of 40 cents or detention for 12 hours in the house of correction.

HARTMAN THEATER.

"New Brooms," the famous comedy triumph written by Frank Graven and in which he starred for a time, will be the second offering, starting Monday night, April 26, by the Hartman Stock company which Lee M. and Robert F. Boda, who have had charge of the Hartman theater, Columbus, ever since it was built, are presenting this season in association with Ambrose M. Miller, of New York.

This is the first time that the Bodas have ever sponsored their own stock company directly and two cars of scenic and electrical equipment were brought on from New York in order to maintain the high standard of the regular winter season. John Hayden, the director, has five or six productions on Broadway now that he has directed, and it was only after considerable persuasion that he came to Columbus.

"New Brooms" was booked to play the Hartman this past season but it could not be crowded in so this will be the first opportunity patrons here will have of seeing this great comedy.

Critics everywhere have hailed it as the best work of Frank Graven, and the roles will be in the capable hands company. Jean Ford and Donn Cook of the members of the Hartman Stock having just finished a season on tour play the leading roles, both of them with Mrs. Fiske in the all star, "The Rivals." Other members of the company are Georgia Neese, John Lott, William Ingersoll and Gilberta Faust, who made many friends in Columbus last season; Martha Lee Manners, Neil McAfee, Forrest Orr, Elise Bristol and Frank Milan.

Allen Hale's orchestra plays for dancing in the foyer, thirty minutes before the play and during intermissions. As a special afternoon feature the orchestra will play for thirty minutes after each matinee. Matinees and on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Prices range from fifty cents to one dollar at night and twenty-five and fifty cents at the matinees. Season reservation lists are still open.

AMUSEMENTS

A wholesome story of tremendous heart appeal, a cast of popular players, direction that leaves nothing to be desired, drama, mystery and thrills, staged against a background of fascinating New York—you'll find them all in James Cruze's latest Paramount masterpiece, "Mannequin," which opened last night at the Metropolitan theater.

This is the picture version of Fannie Hurst's $50,000 prize-winning Liberty Magazine tale, and it is the type of homey, human lot that lends itself admirably to visualization on the screen and strikes a sincere, realistic note because it deals with incidents and situations familiar to all.

To relate the story in detail would be to rob the picture of the element of surprise, which is, after all, its greatest asset. Suffice to say that it centers about a family, whom we first meet back in 1907. The father is a struggling young lawyer, trying to keep his head financially above water in spite of his charming wife's innocent extravagances in a number of small ways. The third member is a little baby girl, who is kidnapped by a good-for-nothing nurse, brought up in the slums of the lower East Side, and after a lapse of eighteen years finds her parents under most dramatic circumstances.

Cruze develops the various situations with a subtlety and skill that keep the interest at fever heat all thru the unreeing of the film. But if any single scene is to be especially lauded, it is the murder trial. Here is the climactic highspot, and from the standpoint of terrific emotionalism and gripping heart appeal, has seldom been equalled on the screen. The acting is uniformly good, which was to be expected from such a group of capable players as Alice Joyce, Warner Baxter, ZaSu Pitts and Dolores Costello.

Nation Prodigious of Vast Natural Wealth

What do the two words, natural resources, mean to you? They should mean all the great storehouses of wealth that a wise nature has stocked up. Some men and women inherit wealth; they proceed at once to spend it without thought or care. Others put their wealth to wise use, letting it produce more wealth, more prosperity.

From nature the people of the United States inherited a wealth of natural resources. Many of these have been spent recklessly because of the very immensity of them. They seemed beyond the possibility of exhaustion. The forests are one of the natural resources that have been spent with a free hand. The inheritance has not been protected, but allowed to fritter away before the assault of fire and waste. The United States is really only beginning to attain a mature vision of what this resource means.—Detroit Free Press.

Scarecrows Passing Out

Scarecrows, which at one time could be seen on almost every farm along the roadside in England, and on many agricultural places in the United States are rapidly passing out of use. Also, it is the rarest of sights to find a live "scarecrow" usually in the shape of a boy, hired to sit on the fence of a newly planted field, and make queer noises to keep crows away. The reason is that English farmers evidently do not any longer consider the crow an unmitigated enemy or foe of crops, but rather hold it a friend.

PROGRAM

Part One

Epithalame MacMaster

The born in England, MacMaster made his reputation as an organist and composer while organist at St. Ambrose, Paris. The first movement is strikingly vigorous and sonorous, and stands out in bold contrast to the soft, sweet melody of the andante movement immediately following. A wedding hymn in name, this number is very unlike the usual conception of what wedding music should be.

(a) Berceuse Godard (1846-1895)
(b) Prelude Opus, 28, No. 29.. Chopin (1810-1851)

Godard will be remembered for his clever piano pieces, of which the "Berceuse" is perhaps the most popular.

Tho but a few lines long, this number of Chopin's has been termed one of the biggest and broadest pieces of music ever written. As one listens to its majestic strains, it is like walking down the aisle of some great cathedral, and its beautiful melody has sung itself into the hearts of all.

O Divine Redeemer Gounod
Mrs. Dolores Maxwell

Onward Christian Soldiers.....Sullivan-Whitney
A brilliant transcription of Sullivan's great hymn of the Church Militant.

(a) Chant D'AmourGillette (1871—)
(b) Canzone Amorosa Nevin (1862-1891)
(c) Rondo D'Amour Westerhovt (1868—)

A group of three love songs. The first is an example of straightforward but effective writing by a contemporary American composer.

The second number is a favorite Nevin melody that sings itself like the Rosary into every heart.

The Rondo is a quaint patrol-like orchestral number that lends itself admirably to most delicate treatment on the organ.

During the intermission Mr. Smith will give a short address on "The Evolution of the Pipe Organ"

Part Two

Festal March Smart (1813-1879)

An imposing and jubilant march by a talented English composer and organist. The introduction of three episodes in different styles makes it quite diversified and holds one's interest thruout.

To a Wild Rose McDowell

"O sweet wild rose! Thou'rt fairer far
Than any other roses are;
Thy fragrance is a sweeter draught
Than any wine by Princes quaffed;
The shimmering petals, drenched with dew,
Glint and gleam and glimmer thru.
And purer than the balmy air
Thou art, O dainty wild rose, fair."

Aria, He Shall Feed His Flock, from "The Messiah" Handel

Mrs. Dolores Maxwell

Largo Handel (1685-1759)

This number needs no description; it is a universal favorite and well adapted to the organ.

Andante (Symphony Pathetique)Tchaikovsky
(1840-1893)

The Symphony Pathetique is one of the greatest of all symphonies. This andante movement, which might well be termed a "song without words," is one of the most beautiful sections of the entire work.

(a) The Evening Star.
(b) Pilgrim's Chorus Wagner (1813-1883)

No melody of Wagner's has achieved more universal popularity than this romance from Tannhauser. The faithful Wolfram bidding farewell to Elizabeth, watches her retreating form till darkness falls on the scene and the evening star shines out above the Wartburg. Then taking his harp he apostrophizes the star which points thru the valley of the shadow of death to "fields of light which know no morrow."

Wagner's compositions are especially suitable for organ transcription because of their rich instrumentation and variety of tone color employed. The chant of the pilgrim monks, in its combination of singularly strong melody, supported by harmonies which it is ever a fresh delight to follow, could have been written by no one but Wagner.

When a man begins to lose ground he is naturally dissatisfied with his lot.

A man has to put up with a good deal in this world and put up for a good deal more.

Some men admit that they are self-made while there are others who blame it on their wives.

A man who looks only at one side of a thing imagines that every other man does the same thing.

Don't think that every sad-eyed woman has loved and lost. Perhaps she loved and got him.

A mountain, at whose verdant feet a spacious plain, outstretched in pleasant circuit wide.—Milton.

The chains of habit are generally too small to be felt till they are too strong to be broken.—Johnson

Moon and Tides

Ocean tides are caused by the attraction of gravity of the moon, with some help from the other heavenly bodies. The attraction of the moon causes a bulge in the oceans as the earth rotates upon its axis. Tides are not noticeable except on large bodies of water.

Denotes Crown Property

The broad arrow stamp consists of a conventionalized arrowhead. It is placed on government stores in Great Britain to distinguish them as public or crown property. It was the cognizance of Henry, Viscount Sydney, earl of Romney, master in general of the ordnance, 1693-1702. The broad arrow has long been used in England on the outer clothing worn by convicts.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Norton.

Rhubarb Jam.

Prepare the rhubarb the same as for stewing, only, instead of the water, add the juice of six oranges to three pints of the prepared rhubarb, double the amount of sugar making two heaping cupfuls. Cook down until the right consistency. Try on a cold plate. If inclined to jelly, it is done.

Frozen Rhubarb.

Prepare the same as for sauce, adding double the amount of sugar. When cooked and cold, freeze. Serve with ice cream, or in sherbet glasses, with whipped cream on top.

Modern Rhubarb Pie.

Prepare rhubarb enough to fill the pie plate to be used heaping full. Line the pie plate with short pie crust. When the rhubarb has been scalded and drained fill the crust with it and add a heaping cupful of cornstarch in a quarter cupful of water and sprinkle it over the fruit. Put on the top crust with vents in the center and finish the edge with the floured tines of a fork. Place a small paper cornucopia made of writing paper in one of the vents to keep the juice from running out by carrying off the steam. Bake as usual. Frequently, the pie is made with the top crust latticed.

Canned Rhubarb.

Wash, trim and cut in short lengths the rhubarb that is to be canned. Fill sterilized jars full, then set them under the cold water faucet and fill them with water until all bubbles are gone, then put on rubbers, fit covers and seal the covers on in the usual way. Wipe, label and store in a cool, dry place. When it comes time to open the jars, drain, scald as directed, and the rhubarb will be ready to use just as when it is fresh.

GOITER GERM IS ISOLATED

Micro-Organism Found In Non-Toxic Goiters Discovered By Dr. Crotti—Gives His Theory.

Toledo, April 24.—(U.P.)—Dr. Andre Crotti, who claims he has succeeded in isolating a micro-organism found in non-toxic goiters and heretofore a baffling element in the treatment of goiters, outlined his discovery in an interview with the United Press today.

"This micro-organism is an entirely new discovery, apparently belongs to the spirillum family and lives in another micro-organism which acts as host," declared Dr. Crotti who revealed his discovery to the surgical section of the Ohio Academy of Medicine here.

"An unusually interesting result of my research work," he continued, "has been the fact that this organism is found in the water supplies where goiter is most prevalent, thus enabling us to trace the origin of goiter."

Goiterous people from an infected area often will find their goiters disappear when they move to an immune locality, he declared.

"In recent years the deficiency of iodine as the cause of the disease has been greatly stressed," Dr. Crotti said. "But so far, this theory is purely an assumption and far from being a scientific fact."

Why Flag Is Flown Atern

The origin of the custom of placing a United States flag at the stern of a ship is obscure. Several theories have been advanced, one of the most substantial being that, in the case of old sailing vessels, the flag was flown over the captain's quarters, which are aft on board ship.

Spring Tonics

"SPRING FEVER" is the term facetiously applied to "that tired feeling" which we all get when the first mild days succeed a long winter. It is a general letting down of the energies which have been keyed up by the cold. We feel lazy and unambitious, and our appetites flag.

Yet, during this period of readjustment of the human system to the change in temperature, it is essential to keep up the strength and vitality. The body needs, in particular, a fresh supply of iron. It becomes the problem of the housewife to serve such foods as will not only tempt the appetites of her family, but re-energize their systems.

Children, too, suffer from this general "letting down" in the early spring. The medicines and certain medicines were administered as "spring tonics." But nowadays it is considered more effective to eat foods rich in iron, than to dose with medicines containing that element. For in food we get nourishment as well as a tonic.

All green vegetables, such as spinach, cabbage (sauerkraut), asparagus, Brussels sprouts and lettuce are rich in iron and vitamins. So are carrots. Spinach and sauerkraut are additionally valuable as system-cleansers. As most of these vegetables may be had, regardless of the season, by buying them in tins, we need not wait for our spring tonics. Rhubarb is another excellent tonic, because of its refreshing and appetizing "tang." It, also, may be purchased in cans, when the fresh is unavailable. It is particularly good for us in the springtime.

A Dollar Dinner for Four

The housewife who must prepare a dinner every day for a family of four, at a cost of $1.00, will find this menu helpful.

Mock Turtle Soup
Pea Roast
Bread and Butter
Pineapple Tapioca
Coffee

A CAN of Mock Turtle soup, to which an equal portion of cold water is added, costs about 9 cents a can, at the rate of 3 cans for 25 cents at special sales.

The Pea Roast requires a can of peas costing 13 cents, at special sales of 2 for 25 cents; 1/4 cup walnut meats about 3 cents; 1 egg, about 4 cents at present prices; 3/4 cup milk, about 3 cents at the rate of 9 cents a pint; a little sugar, butter, salt, pepper and a few breadcrumbs, about 2 cents; making total of 25 cents.

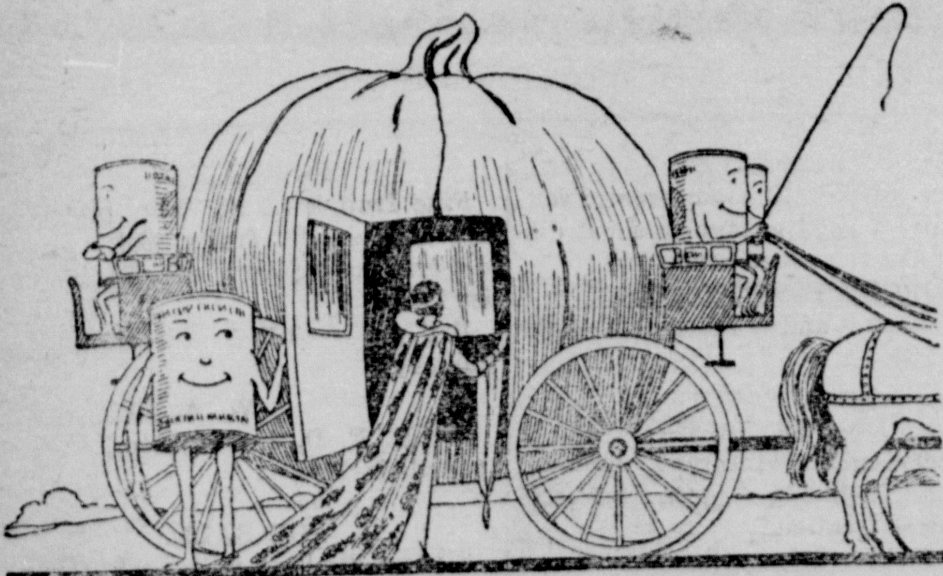

For the Corn Souffle: A can of corn, 13 cents at special sales of 2 for 25 cents; 1 cup milk, 4 1/2 cents; 1 egg, 4 cents; 1 teaspoon cornstarch, and seasoning, about 1/2 cent; total, 22 cents.

Loaf of bread, 8 cents. Enough coffee for four people, at average price of 40 cents a pound, about 4 cents.

For the dessert: A No. 2 size can shredded pineapple, 17 cents at special sales; 1/2 cup tapioca, at 15 cents a box, about 4 cents; 1/4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and a pinch of salt, about 2 cents; total, 23 cents.

Total cost of the proposed menu, 91 cents, leaving 9 cents to cover cost of butter and of sugar for the coffee.

A Can for Cinderella

THERE are, alas, no fairy godmothers wandering about, today, ready to help the poor little kitchen drudge to get to the ball, where the fairy prince awaits her. The modern Cinderella must be her own fairy godmother. If she wants to finish her household tasks in time to participate in the social whirl, she must avail herself of "the goods the gods provide," in the form of ready-prepared foods. She cannot turn a pumpkin into a coach, but she can turn the contents of a can of pumpkin into a luscious pumpkin pie, thereby saving herself all the time and labor of cutting and cooking the pumpkin.

She has only to add a few other ingredients to the canned pumpkin, and it is ready for the pie. Thus she may serve pumpkin pie on short notice, especially if she keeps some pastry made up, in her ice-box, where it will remain in good condition for several days.

Formerly, pumpkin pies could be had only in the fall and winter. But, with canned pumpkin, they may be enjoyed all the year 'round. And this popular dessert tastes just as good in summer as it does in winter.

Here are instructions for preparing canned pumpkin for pies: Mix, in the following order, 1 1/4 cups canned pumpkin, 2/3 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon ginger, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 well-beaten eggs and 2 cups of milk.

Trouble-Saving Tool

A recently invented screw driver is made so that it holds any screw by its slot. It starts screws easily in difficult places. When the screw driver is placed in the slot of the screw and pressure released, these clips spread apart, securing themselves tightly in the slot.

Synthetic Women

Mr. Bryan did not run for re-election in 1924, owing to his campaign for the vice presidency. Indications are that he will have a clear field in the race for the Democratic nomination.

Woman Makes Home Atop London Bridge

London—"The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe" must yield pride of place in picturesque residences to Mrs. David Frater, who lives in a flat at the top of one of the arches of the Tower bridge, London. Tower bridge is a "drawbridge" and needs a resident official to set the machinery in motion to raise the vehicular-traffic bridge when big ships want to pass under, and the only place for a residence is at the top of the towers.

Mrs. Frater is the wife of a bridge official, and she makes light of the 86 steps up the spiral staircase which have to be traversed when she wants to go into the outer world.

She enjoys the finest view in London, for one of the diamond-paned windows of her airy home looks onto the gray old Tower of London, and the others look over the Thames.

"There are four nice, big living rooms," she says, "and underneath there is an enormous room which stretches right across the arch. I use that room to hang out my washing, and it's better than a backyard."

Also it is required that all passengers wear socks when boarding the cars.

Broken Umbrella

One rainy day as I was going to work my wife gave me an umbrella which was broken. It would open without pressing the button. Thinking it was better than nothing on a rainy day I took it. When I got on the street car it was crowded so I had to stand. Suddenly the umbrella opened up and with it lifted the dresses of the women around. I was never so embarrassed in all my life.—G. TEMPERANCE WOMEN MEET IN THIS CITY

Mrs. Graham Chosen Delegate to Los Angeles—Mrs. Gussman Alternate.

A most inspiring and helpful convention of Pickaway county W. C. T. U., was held in the Methodist Episcopal church, Ashville, Thursday, April 22.

The meeting was in charge of County President Mrs. Lucy B. Price and opened with the song, "Lead on, Oh King Eternal."

Mrs. Brintlinger had charge of the devotions, reading part of the 8th chapter of Nehemiah and Mrs. Cline led in prayer. Roll call was followed by appointment of committee, followed by a reading "Green Hands" by Mrs. Bessie Long.

The next item on the program was a demonstration of the State Plan of Work. This was divided into three parts; first Membership, in charge of Mrs. Adda Prushing, of Ashville. This was very well done, being a dialogue of her own composition, and she was assisted by Mrs. Hazel Cloud. The second part, Magazines, was given by Miss Mary Harpster, of Kingston. This was composed by Miss Harpster herself, very cleverly written boosting the W. C. T. U. paper "The Union Signal." A little girl was dressed in a dress of the "Young Crusader" also was with her. The third part "Money" was in charge of Mrs. Abbie Gussman, county treasurer, who gave a fine representation of the six funds with the assistance of six other ladies. The three parts were interspersed with music also a solo "Give" by Mrs. Alma Boor.

The demonstration of the five departments Y. P. B. S. T. L. Publicity, Scientific Temperance and Peace and International Arbitration was given by the five leaders of the work. After some remarks and reading of clippings by the president, the meeting adjourned with the noontide prayer by Mrs. Dunlap.

A delightful social hour followed in the basement with a picnic luncheon and hot coffee served by the Ashville Union.

There was an executive meeting held during the noon hour at which time Miss Etta Graham of Harrisburg was elected delegate to the National W. C. T. U. convention in Los Angeles in September. Mrs. Abbie Gussman was elected alternate.

The afternoon session opened with singing, "America, the Beautiful," Mrs. Alma Boor leading. Mrs. Wright had charge of the devotions and led in prayer. A playlet followed; "Aunt Columbia's Query," led by Mrs. Mary Alexander in which ten other ladies took part. This was what prominent folks thought about prohibition in the United States.

The departmental representation then continued, the following being represented, who gave short talks or read letters, etc. Anti-Narcotics, Christian Citizenship, Evangelistic, Health, Temperance and Missions, Flower Mission, Institutions, Legislation, Medical Temperance, Contests Parliamentary Usage, Sabbath Observance, Social Morality, Child Welfare, Sunday school, Soldiers and Sailors, and Bible in Public School.

This was followed by an allegiance march in which all took part marching around the church, an inspiring sight. Rev. Sudlow brought greetings as did Rev. Ricketts. Solo, "World Wide Joy" Mrs. Boor.

After a splendid report of the mid-year by the president the meeting closed with the W. C. T. U. benediction.

Odd Plea Wins

TODAY'S BUSINESS

America's Markets.

Notable changes in the order of America's markets are revealed in the analysis of Our World Trade for 1925 made by the Department of Foreign Commerce of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. While, in the main, the world's purchasing capacity has generally increased, some countries have made more progress than others in this respect.

"Seventy-nine per cent of our chief markets," the Foreign Commerce Department of the national chamber says, "made larger purchases from us in 1925 than in 1924. The five leading markets in 1925, Great Britain, Canada, Germany, France and Japan, constituting 54.2 per cent of our total exports, also were the five leading in 1924 in the same order. The positions of the next five changed considerably: Italy became our sixth chief market, displacing Cuba; Argentina moved up from eleventh to eighth place, the Netherlands dropping to eleventh place; and Australia became our ninth market, displacing Mexico. These first ten markets purchased 71.4 per cent of our exports; only 3 of the 10, France, Japan and Cuba, decreased their purchases from us."

Sweater of Jersey Is Striped in Tan, Henna

The skirt of this sport outfit is of henna jersey banded with tan, the sweater of jersey evenly striped in tan and henna. With the outfit is worn a new type of cowboy hat, the color being tan.

Cape Promises to Be Favorite for Spring

According to Worth, capes are to be the fashionable wrap of the season. He shows a great number of them both separately and as part of ensembles. Chiffon is the favorite fabric for capes, which proves that they are expected to be more ornamental than useful, though Worth often trims them with flat fur either gray or beige.

A gray kasha ensemble has a straight coat that is trimmed with a double line of dark blue applique in turrets at the hip line. The bottom of the coat from hips to hem is of black leather. The dress beneath has a dark blue jumper applied with gray and the gray skirt is plaited. Another gray ensemble is in three shades and is equipped with a cape that has a deep point of henna suede at the shoulders at the back. The dress is provided with a henna suede belt to match. The three tones are used in 12-inch stripes.

Quite charming is an afternoon frock in rose-colored crepe de chine, with a handkerchief collar of printed chiffon, a chiffon scarf at the waist and a full gathered overskirt of chiffon. With this dress a full gathered chiffon cape is worn which, like the dress trimmings, is printed with tiny circles of beige, red and black.

The jumper idea is carried out in an evening gown of silver cloth with a plaited skirt. With this is worn a chiffon cape printed in two shades of rose and having the design emphasized by sequin embroidery.

Fringe Used Lavishly by Paris Designers

In this season of engaging variation, fringe is used lavishly by some of the best designers of Paris. Vionnet, who long has specialized, so to speak, in the fringed gown, is doing some of uncommon charm. Other interesting models are received from Decoll, Worth, Patou, Lelong and Boulanger. American women are greatly intrigued by the fringed gown, and some designs of much grace and elegance are being created by artists on this side.

Another type of evening dress for the spring is the paradoxical "jumper" frock. This virtual sports design is amusingly reproduced in metal tissues, brocades, gilt and silver lace, and in sheer materials with heavy lace, and embroidery. The silhouette is absolutely straight, the dressy quality of the costume being in the fabrics and trimming, the nonexistence of sleeves and the decollete neck.

The quilted coats seen in white and the pastel shades among the displays of southern wear now are among the spring offerings.

These come in short and full lengths and in straight or flared models. A short red coat quilted in gold is further embellished with gold painting along black satin. Coat has a deep quilted border at bottom and sleeve edges stitched in silver and a gray satin lining. The two-in-one idea is carried out in a long red taffeta coat quilted in white stitching with the reverse side of white taffeta stitched in red.

The quilted silk hat also promises to be popular. The shapes are varied and particularly good.

Metropolitan shops are featuring a smart draped toque in quilted satin, with a handsome pouch bag to match.

SOLON WOULD LET EXTREME DRY TRY HAND

La Guardia, New York Says Test of Several Months Would Convince Modification Needed.

Washington, April 25.—Tactics of the wets at the senate prohibition hearing which closed yesterday, were attacked again today by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, who explained in a statement that he refrained from taking the witness stand because of the "wets" plan to use up the "dry" time by my cross-examination.

"I planned to take the stand," he said, "until it was evident what the wet plans were, and when the committee in charge of our part of the hearings agreed we would circumvent them."

Without mentioning Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who was the wet prosecutor and cross-examiner, Wheeler declared that "as it was a large part of the dries' time was consumed by filibuster cross-examination."

Wheeler's statement and another by Representative LaGuardia, Progressive-Socialist, of New York, served to break the Sunday lull in the wake of the heated course of the hearing.

LaGuardia suggested that Wheeler be appointed Prohibition director, with a staff of officers approved by the "extreme dry advocates" and given until January or February to "do anything they desire to enforce this law."

What will you have to show in future years for today's shopping dollars?

A JEWELRY PURCHASE IS AN INVESTMENT IN PERMANENT VALUES

THE old copy-books of our school days declared that you can't eat your cake and have it.
Which is another way of saying that you can't spend your money, and keep it too!
But the copy-book editors overlooked the money spent at the jewelry store.

On the typical purchase from the jeweler, you draw an income of pleasure and satisfaction, year after year, while still retaining much of the principal, in easily convertible value. For the shopping dollars entrusted to the jeweler are not spent, but invested, in a permanent addition to your estate.

Value-wise shoppers today think twice, before they barter their purses for short-lived baubles. For they know that even for the modest pocket book the jeweler's stock is rich in articles, both of utility and adornment, that will last through a lifetime.

Building up a line of jewelry means building up a heritage for the decades; quick asset possessions that are a tangible and enduring evidence of one's success and achievement.

"The Bank That Makes You Feel At Home."

LAST SURVIVOR OF JORN BROWN'S BAND IS CALLED

By Death—Luke F. Parsons, Aid
To Famous Abolitionist, Dies
After an Eventful, Romantic Life—Missed
Big Raid.

Salina, Kan., April 25.—Death that he had confronted so often as a youth, Friday laid its hand on Luke F. Parsons, 93, last survivor of the famous John Brown Band of slavery days. The old free stater had been ill for several weeks.

When Parsons came West into Kansas in the spring of 1856, the country was in the throes of the free state-slave state agitation. He joined the famous abolitionist, John Brown and his five sturdy sons in their fight to make Kansas a free state, and was with him in all of his battles with the border raiders who sought to control Kansas politics and to extend slavery into the state.

Although selected by Brown as one of his ten picked men for the raid into Virginia at Harper's Ferry, Parsons could not be with him and thus probably escaped the fate that befell that little party. He was in Colorado at the time whither the gold rush had taken him.

Parsons was day clerk at the famous Eldridge or Free State Hotel at Lawrence, Kansas, when it was burned by Quantrill's band, the printing presses destroyed and the town sacked.

In the attack on Fort Titus, near Lecompton, Kan., the headquarters of the border raiders, Parsons was wounded. In that action the first two balls fired from an old brass cannon were molded from type picked up around the newspaper offices in Lawrence, following Quantrill's raid. As the shots rang out the captain in charge of the attack cried, "Those are the second edition of the Herald Freedom, one of the newspapers destroyed at Lawrence. How do you like it, eh?"

In the battle of Osawatimie, Kan., fought Aug. 31, 1856, Brown had but a handful of men to oppose more than 400 border raiders from Missouri. Parsons and ten other men were selected by Brown to hold a blockhouse.

"Take more pains to end life well than to live long," Parsons was told by Brown when they went into the fray.

Following the hanging of Brown, Parsons became the first sheriff of Salina County, Kan. He entered the Sixth Kansas Cavalry at the outbreak of the Civil war, serving nearly four years.

The latter part of his life was spent on a farm near here. A few years ago he moved into Salina.

Sycamore, Ill., April 24.—Indictments were returned today by DeKalb County grand jury, charging criminal attack against Emerson Wilson, Stanley Hurt and Leonard Rich in connection with an alleged attack upon Miss Dorothy Westervelt, Normal School student at DeKalb.

The three boys were arraigned immediately and bail fixed at $25,000 each. Two had been in jail and one on bond of $5,000.

Miss Westervelt was a witness yesterday before the grand jury, where she is understood to have repeated her story that the three boys, all former students at Northern Illinois Teachers' College, which she was attending, attacked her when in a motor car.

SAYS MOTORIST IS BEST WALKERDriving Has Taught Them Lessons of Safe Pedestrianism, Says Smith.

Whoever may be impressed with the idea that automobilism is making people forget how to walk will do well to revise that impression.

This is the conclusion reached by Ernest N. Smith, general manager of the American Automobile association, after gathering some statistics on the subject and making some personal observations.

Few Drivers Caught.

According to Mr. Smith, comparatively few automobile drivers are caught off their guard when walking. A majority of pedestrian accidents involving persons who have had no experience in handling cars.

"Automobilism is teaching people how to walk safely," he explains. "An active motorist is also an active walker, for in using the car he has additional need for walking in congested districts. He knows which way to look when he steps across a one-way street, and when crossing at crossings he is aware of the ever-present hazard of the car that is making a right-hand turn.

"When the automobile driver walks he does it in a competent manner, and when he crosses streets at policed intersections he makes allowances for the inability of the officer to look out for every one. Automobilism shows the motorist a perfect picture of the danger he faces as a pedestrian, and so when he walks he conducts himself accordingly.

No Judge of Distance.

"Persons who do not drive motor cars have no conception of speed or stopping distance. They see traffic from a narrow angle, being unable to see hazards in their proper proportions. The real dangers often escape their attention while they are busy worrying over things that would not be likely to harm them.

"Automobilism is not making people forget how to walk. On the contrary, it is making them learn to walk in a way that befits the modern age."

Reckless Driving Cause of Many Auto Accidents

The number injured and killed in auto and motor-cycle accidents is appalling. Most of these accidents can be accounted for by reckless driving. The worst of it is that the innocent suffer with the guilty, whether riding with the reckless driver or in the other car.

It is a great temptation when out on a fine country road to "let 'er out." The width of the road, the curves, the traffic, have everything to do with safety when going in a swift moving car. A safe speed in one place may be a very dangerous speed in another place not far distant. National prohibition will reduce accidents considerably.

Every driver ought to feel some responsibility for the safety of those riding with him and others using the highways. The day of regret is bound to come to every reckless driver. The intent to kill may not be there, and no jury can bring in a verdict of murder, yet the results are the same. Speeding ceases to be a joke when it ends in a permanent injury or a death. The guilty one can never get away from the remorse of that moment of careless driving—Successful Farming.

Leak in Vacuum Feed

In cars using vacuum feed a leak in the line running to the inlet manifold may interfere with proper operation of the engine at high speed though not at low. The reduced vacuum in the tank, caused by leak, results in less fuel being lifted than is ordinarily the case, and with a wide-open throttle, let us say, on a hard pull, the engine demand will be greater than the supply, which means spitting and possibly stopping of the engine.

Replacing Brake Lining Is Not Difficult Task

To replace a brake lining, the bands or shoes are taken off, the axle is placed in a vise, while the rivets are knocked off with a cold chisel or hammer. New strips of the lining fabric are cut to size. Beginning then at one end of the strip, two or three rivet holes are located with a blue pencil and cut with a punch, after which the fabric is put in position on the shoe.

Medium hard rivets, to prevent scoring of the drums, are passed through the holes and are then headed down securely at the back of the band. They must be sunk well into the fabric lining, so that no projections are left. With the strip held tightly to prevent wrinkling, and with the band at its original curvature, the next hole is marked, punched and riveted in the same way.

The operator simply keeps on around until the entire strip of lining is riveted down into place on the shoe. The braking systems of our modern cars are efficient enough under ordinary circumstances, but they are not powerful enough to allow a margin for slack maintenance. They must be kept right up to the mark, and systematic inspections and repairs when needed are dictated by common sense.

Lost Compression Quite Disagreeable to Drive

Do not allow your engine to lose compression. It is disagreeable to the good driver and creates a larger running expense, causing loss of fuel and power. The careful motorist will check up on compression in each cylinder at regular intervals, opening all priming cups or removing all spark plugs, one at a time, and revolving crank. If the cylinder which has its priming cup closed or plug inserted resists to a good extent, his efforts to revolve the engine, that cylinder has good compression. All cylinders can be tested in the same manner, closing priming cups and replacing spark plugs in each cylinder when the test is completed. There are other methods for testing, such as listening for hissing noises on compression strokes of pistons, allowing the car to go down hill with ignition turned off and with transmission in low or second speeds to note the resistance of the movement of the car which each cylinder offers, or a compression gauge may be used.

Getting Out of Sand

When a car is driven into a sandy spot in the road and the rear wheels spin there is no use in keeping on spinning them. The more the wheels spin the deeper the car sinks in the sand and the more difficult it will be to get it out. If no rope or burlap is available, deflate the tires and with the gears in first engage the clutch slowly. If this doesn't help, get two wooden planks and place them behind the rear wheels.

Means Pep in the Engine

Did you ever wonder why the engine does not show the accustomed pep or why the lights burn dimly or the ignition seems poor? Unfasten the wires and bars at the battery terminals and notice if they are clean. They must be clean if current is to flow freely. Scrape off with a stick any green or white deposit you see, and spread a little cup grease over the parts to prevent corrosion.

Horn Saves Car

Sounding the horn upon approaching the crest is splendid insurance against a head-on collision. The wise motorist is sensible enough not to be on the wrong side of the road in the act of passing another car at the crest of a steep hill, but he never knows but that the "other fellow" may be doing it on the other side. The modern motorist has to be his brother's keeper for his own safety.

Use for Old Files

Frequently it is necessary for the car owner who does his own repair work to file a piece of cast iron that has been subjected to friction and so has acquired a glaze or skin. The best way to get through this skin is to use the edges of an old file. If a new file is used on this sort of surface it is likely to be ruined.

Advancement in Burma

"The road to Mandalay" is now the path to knowledge, for the first agricultural college in Burma has been opened there. The student body of the opening class numbers 84, enrolled for a four-year course. A farm of 600 acres has been provided, for the working out of problems connected with tropical agriculture. A special project will be the building up of a pedigree breed of pure Burma cattle.

Laws Against Profanity

In 1794 the Pennsylvania legislature passed an act providing that any person over sixteen years blaspheming, cursing, or profaning the name of Almighty God should be fined the sum of 67 cents or be confined in the house of correction 24 hours. In 1804 it was amended that the perpetration of a curse or oath involved a penalty of 40 cents or detention for 12 hours in the house of correction.

It could hardly be called that.

Yet, many a time it has been said that it is a crime to let shoes go too long before having them resoled.

HARTMAN THEATER.

"New Brooms," the famous comedy triumph written by Frank Craven and in which he starred for a time, will be the second offering, starting Monday night, April 26, by the Hartman Stock company which Lee M. and Robert F. Boda, who have had charge of the Hartman theater, Columbus, ever since it was built, are presenting this season in association with Ambrose M. Miller, of New York.

This is the first time that the Boda have ever sponsored their own stock company directly and two cars of scenic and electrical equipment were brought on from New York in order to maintain the high standard of the regular winter season. John Hayden, the director, has five or six productions on Broadway now that he has directed, and it was only after considerable persuasion that he came to Columbus.

"New Brooms" was booked to play the Hartman this past season but it could not be crowded in so this will be the first opportunity patrons here will have of seeing this great comedy.

Critics everywhere have hailed it as the best work of Frank Craven, and the roles will be in the capable hands of company. Jean Ford and Donn Cook of the members of the Hartman Stock having just finished a season on tour play the leading roles, both of them with Mrs. Fiske in the all star, "The Rivals." Other members of the company are Georgia Neese, John Lott, William Ingersoll and Gilberta Faust, who made many friends in Columbus last season; Martha Lee Manners, Neil McAfee, Forrest Orr, Elise Bristol and Frank Milan.

Allen Hale's orchestra plays for dancing in the foyer, thirty minutes before the play and during intermissions. As a special afternoon feature the orchestra will play for thirty minutes after each matinee. Matinees and on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. Prices range from fifty cents to one dollar at night and twenty-five and fifty cents at the matinees. Season reservation lists are still open.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

AMUSEMENTS

A wholesome story of tremendous heart appeal, a cast of popular players, direction that leaves nothing to be desired, drama, mystery and thrills, staged against a background of fascinating New York—you'll find them all in James Cruze's latest Paramount masterpiece, "Mannequin," which opened last night at the Metropolitan theater.

This is the picture version of Fannie Hurst's $50,000 prize-winning Liberty Magazine tale, and it is the type of homey, human lot that lends itself admirably to visualization on the screen and strikes a sincere, realistic note because it deals with incidents and situations familiar to all.

To relate the story in detail would be to rob the picture of the element of surprise, which is, after all, its greatest asset. Suffice to say that it centers about a family, whom we first meet back in 1907. The father is a struggling young lawyer, trying to keep his head financially above water in spite of his charming wife's innocent extravagances in a number of small ways. The third member is a little baby girl, who is kidnapped by a good-for-nothing nurse, brought up in the slums of the lower East Side, and after a lapse of eighteen years finds her parents under most dramatic circumstances.

Cruze develops the various situations with a subtlety and skill that keep the interest at fever heat all thru the unreeing of the film. But if any single scene is to be especially lauded, it is the murder trial. Here is the climactic highspot, and from the standpoint of terrific emotionalism and gripping heart appeal, has seldom been equalled on the screen. The acting is uniformly good, which was to be expected from such a group of capable players as Alice Joyce, Warner Baxter, ZaSu Pitts and Dolores Costello.

Nation Prodigal of Vast Natural Wealth

What do the two words, natural resources, mean to you? They should mean all the great storehouses of wealth that a wise nature has stocked up. Some men and women inherit wealth; they proceed at once to spend it without thought or care. Others put their wealth to wise use, letting it produce more wealth, more prosperity.

From nature the people of the United States inherited a wealth of natural resources. Many of these have been spent recklessly because of the very immensity of them. They seemed beyond the possibility of exhaustion. The forests are one of the natural resources that have been spent with a free hand. The inheritance has not been protected, but allowed to fritter away before the assault of fire and waste. The United States is really only beginning to attain a mature vision of what this resource means.—Detroit Free Press.

Scarecrows Passing Out

Scarecrows, which at one time could be seen on almost every farm along the roadside in England, and on many agricultural places in the United States are rapidly passing out of use. Also, it is the rarest of sights to find a live "scarecrow" usually in the shape of a boy, hired to sit on the fence of a newly planted field, and make queer noises to keep crows away. The reason is that English farmers evidently do not any longer consider the crow an unmitigated enemy or foe of crops, but rather hold it a friend.

PROGRAM

Part One

Epithalame MacMaster

The born in England, MacMaster made his reputation as an organist and composer while organist at St. Ambrose, Paris. The first movement is strikingly vigorous and sonorous, and stands out in bold contrast to the soft, sweet melody of the andante movement immediately following. A wedding hymn in name, this number is very unlike the usual conception of what wedding music should be.

(a) Berceuse Godard (1846-1895)
(b) Prelude Opus, 28, No. 29. .Chopin (1810-1851)

Godard will be remembered for his clever piano pieces, of which the "Berceuse" is perhaps the most popular.

Tho but a few lines long, this number of Chopin's has been termed one of the biggest and broadest pieces of music ever written. As one listens to its majestic strains, it is like walking down the aisle of some great cathedral, and its beautiful melody has sung itself into the hearts of all.

O Divine Redeemer Gounod
Mrs. Dolores Maxwell

Onward Christian Soldiers.....Sullivan-Whitney
A brilliant transcription of Sullivan's great hymn of the Church Militant.

(a) Chant D'AmourGillette (1871—)
(b) Canzone Amorosa Nevin (1862-1891)
(c) Rondo D'Amour Westerhovt (1868—)

A group of three love songs. The first is an example of straightforward but effective writing by a contemporary American composer.

The second number is a favorite Nevin melody that sings itself like the Rosary into every heart.

The Rondo is a quaint patrol-like orchestral number that lends itself admirably to most delicate treatment on the organ.

During the intermission Mr. Smith will give a short address on "The Evolution of the Pipe Organ"

Part Two

Festal March Smart (1813-1879)

An imposing and jubilant march by a talented English composer and organist. The introduction of three episodes in different styles makes it quite diversified and holds one's interest thruout.

To a Wild Rose McDowell

"O sweet wild rose! Thou'rt fairer far
Than any other roses are;
Thy fragrance is a sweeter draught
Than any wine by Princes quaffed;
The shimmering petals, drenched with dew,
Glint and gleam and glimmer thru.
And purer than the balmy air
Thou art, O dainty wild rose, fair."

Aria, He Shall Feed His Flock, from "The Messiah" Handel

Mrs. Dolores Maxwell

Largo Handel (1685-1759)

This number needs no description; it is a universal favorite and well adapted to the organ.

Andante (Symphony Pathetique)Tchaikovsky (1840-1893)

The Symphony Pathetique is one of the greatest of all symphonies. This andante movement, which might well be termed a "song without words," is one of the most beautiful sections of the entire work.

(a) The Evening Star.
(b) Pilgrim's Chorus Wagner (1813-1883)

No melody of Wagner's has achieved more universal popularity than this romance from Tannhauser. The faithful Wolfram bidding farewell to Elizabeth, watches her retreating form till darkness falls on the scene and the evening star shines out above the Wartburg. Then taking his harp he apostrophizes the star which points thru the valley of the shadow of death to "fields of light which know no morrow."

Wagner's compositions are especially suitable for organ transcription because of their rich instrumentation and variety of tone color employed. The chant of the pilgrim monks, in its combination of singularly strong melody, supported by harmonies which it is ever a fresh delight to follow, could have been written by no one but Wagner.

When a man begins to lose ground he is naturally dissatisfied with his lot.

A man has to put up with a good deal in this world and put up for a good deal more.

Some men admit that they are self-made while there are others who blame it on their wives.

A man who looks only at one side of a thing imagines that every other man does the same thing.

Don't think that every sad-eyed woman has loved and lost. Perhaps she loved and got him.

A mountain, at whose verdant feet a spacious plain, outstretched in pleasant circuit wide.—Milton.

The chains of habit are generally too small to be felt till they are too strong to be broken.—John

The broad arrow stamp consists of a conventionalized arrowhead. It is placed on government stores in Great Britain to distinguish them as public or crown property. THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Norton.

Rhubarb Jam.

Prepare the rhubarb the same as for stewing, only, instead of the water, add the juice of six oranges to three pints of the prepared rhubarb, double the amount of sugar making two heaping cupfuls. Cook down until the right consistency. Try on a cold plate. If inclined to jell, it is done.

Frozen Rhubarb.

Prepare the same as for sauce, adding double the amount of sugar. When cooked and cold, freeze. Serve with ice cream, or in sherbet glasses, with whipped cream on top.

Modern Rhubarb Pie.

Prepare rhubarb enough to fill the pie plate to be used heaping full. Line the pie plate with short pie crust. When the rhubarb has been scalded and drained fill the crust with it and add a heaping cupful of cornstarch in a quarter cupful of water and sprinkle it over the fruit. Put on the top crust with vents in the center and finish the edge with the floured tines of a fork. Place a small paper cornucopia made of writing paper in one of the vents to keep the juice from running out by carrying off the steam. Bake as usual. Frequently, the pie is made with the top crust latticed.

Canned Rhubarb.

Wash, trim and cut in short lengths the rhubarb that is to be canned. Fill sterilized jars full, then set them under the cold water faucet and fill them with water until all bubbles are gone, then put on rubbers, fit covers and seal the covers on in the usual way. Wipe, label and store in a cool, dry place. When it comes time to open the jars, drain, scald as directed, and the rhubarb will be ready to use just as when it is fresh.

GOITER GERM IS ISOLATED

Micro-Organism Found In Non-Toxic Goiters Discovered By Dr. Crotti—Gives His Theory.

Toledo, April 24.—(U.P.)—Dr. Andre Crotti, who claims he has succeeded in isolating a micro-organism found in non-toxic goiters and heretofore a baffling element in the treatment of goiters, outlined his discovery in an interview with the United Press today.

"This micro-organism is an entirely new discovery, apparently belongs to the spirillum family and lives in another micro-organism which acts as host," declared Dr. Crotti who revealed his discovery to the surgical section of the Ohio Academy of Medicine here.

"An unusually interesting result of my research work," he continued, "has been the fact that this organism is found in the water supplies where goiter is most prevalent, thus enabling us to trace the origin of goiter."

Goiterous people from an infected area often will find their goiters disappear when they move to an immune locality, he declared.

"In recent years the deficiency of iodine as the cause of the disease has been greatly stressed," Dr. Crotti said. "But so far, this theory is purely an assumption and far from being a scientific fact."

Why Flag Is Flown Afters

The origin of the custom of placing a United States flag at the stern of a ship is obscure. Several theories have been advanced, one of the most substantial being that, in the case of old sailing vessels, the flag was flown over the captain's quarters, which are aft on board ship.

Spring Tonics

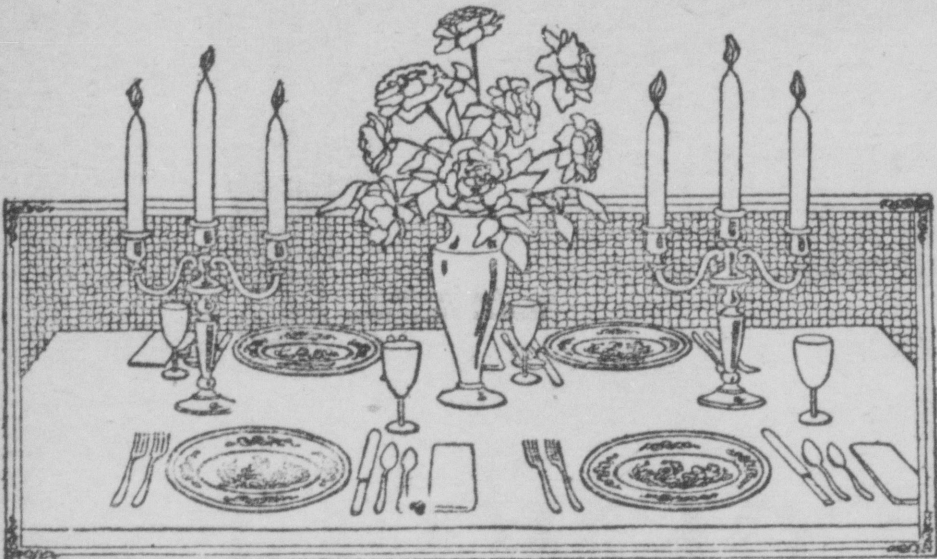

"SPRING FEVER" is the term facetiously applied to "that tired feeling" which we all get when the first mild days succeed a long winter. It is a general letting down of the energies which have been keyed up by the cold. We feel lazy and unambitious, and our appetites flag.

Yet, during this period of readjustment of the human system to the change in temperature, it is essential to keep up the strength and vitality. The body needs, in particular, a fresh supply of iron. It becomes the problem of the housewife to serve such foods as will not only tempt the appetites of her family, but re-energize their systems.

Children, too, suffer from this "spring time daze" in the early spring months. Berries and certain medicines were administered as "spring tonics." But nowadays it is considered more effective to eat foods rich in iron, than to dose with medicines containing that element. For in food we get nourishment as well as a tonic.

All green vegetables, such as spinach, cabbage (sauerkraut), asparagus, Brussels sprouts and lettuce are rich in iron and vitamins. So are carrots. Spinach and sauerkraut are additionally valuable as system-cleansers. As most of these vegetables may be had, regardless of the season, by buying them in tins, we need not wait for our spring tonics. Rhubarb is another excellent tonic, because of its refreshing and appetizing "tang." It, also, may be purchased in cans, when the fresh is unavailable. It is particularly good for us in the springtime.

A Dollar Dinner for Four

The housewife who must prepare a dinner every day for a family of four, at a cost of $1.00, will find this menu helpful.

Mock Turtle Soup
Pea Roast
Bread and Butter
Pineapple Tapioca
Corn Souffle
Coffee

A CAN of Mock Turtle soup, to which an equal portion of cold water is added, costs about 9 cents a can, at the rate of 3 cans for 25 cents at special sales.

The Pea Roast requires a can of peas costing 13 cents, at special sales of 2 for 25 cents; 1/4 cup walnut meats about 3 cents; 1 egg, about 4 cents at present prices; 3/4 cup milk, about 3 cents at the rate of 9 cents a pint; a little sugar, butter, salt, pepper and a few breadcrumbs, about 2 cents; making total of 25 cents.

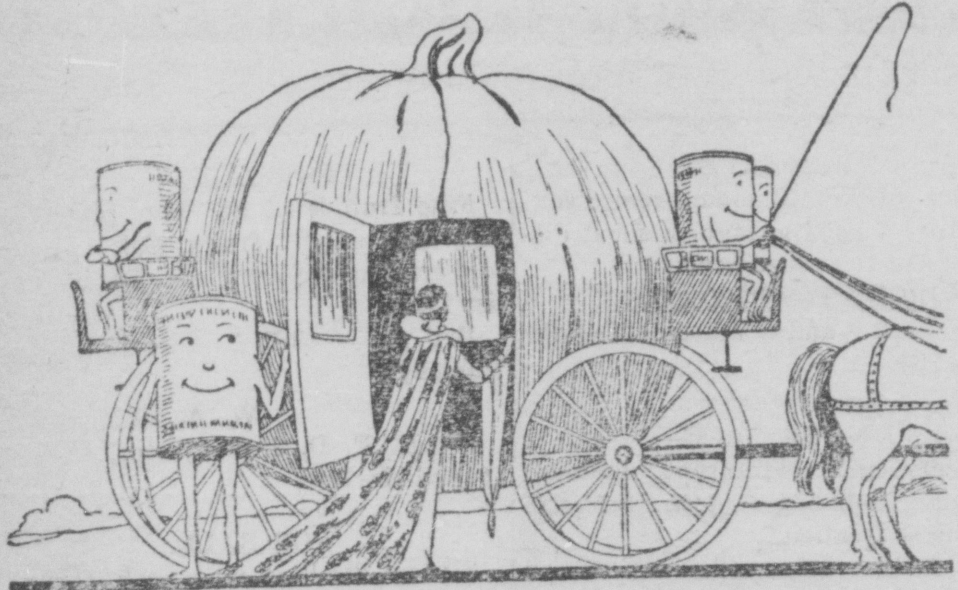

For the Corn Souffle: A can of corn, 13 cents at special sales of 2 for 25 cents; 1 cup milk, 4 1/2 cents; 1 egg, 4 cents; 1 teaspoon corn-starch, and seasoning, about 1/2 cent; total, 22 cents.

Loaf of bread, 8 cents. Enough coffee for four people, at average price of 40 cents a pound, about 4 cents.

For the dessert: A No. 2 size can shredded pineapple, 17 cents at special sales; 1/2 cup tapioca, at 15 cents a box, about 4 cents; 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and a pinch of salt, about 2 cents; total, 23 cents.

Total cost of the proposed menu, 91 cents, leaving 9 cents to cover cost of butter and of sugar for the coffee.

A Can for Cinderella

THERE are, alas, no fairy godmothers wandering about, today, ready to help the poor little kitchen drudge to get to the ball, where the fairy prince awaits her. The modern Cinderella must be her own fairy godmother. If she wants to finish her household tasks in time to participate in the social whirl, she must avail herself of "the goods the gods provide," in the form of ready-prepared foods. She cannot turn a pumpkin into a coach, but she can turn the contents of a can of pumpkin into a luscious pumpkin pie, thereby saving herself all the time and labor of cutting and cooking the pumpkin.

She has only to add a few other ingredients to the canned pumpkin, and it is ready for the pie. Thus she may serve pumpkin pie on short notice, especially if she keeps some pastry made up, in her ice-box, where it will remain in good condition for several days.

Formerly, pumpkin pies could be had only in the fall and winter. But, with canned pumpkin, they may be enjoyed all the year 'round. And this popular dessert tastes just as good in summer as it does in winter.

Here are instructions for preparing canned pumpkin for pies: Mix, in the following order, 1 1/2 cups canned pumpkin, 2/3 cup brown sugar, 1 tea-spoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon ginger, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 well-beaten eggs and 2 cups of milk.

Trouble-Saving Tool

A recently invented screw driver is made so that it holds any screw by its slot. It starts screws easily in difficult places. By applying pressure on the top, two steel clips are released from the tool. When the screw driver is placed in the slot of the screw and pressure released, these clips spread apart, securing themselves tightly in the slot.

Synthetic Women

It is a world to see how commonly we are blinded with the collusions of women, and more enticed by their ornaments being artificial than their proportion being natural. I loathe almost to think on their ointments and apothecary drugs, the sleeking of their faces and all their slobber sauces, which bring quasiness to the stomach and disgust to the mind.—John Lyly.

Columbus, April 25.—Word was received Saturday from Chicago that W. H. McFarland, former district passenger agent of the Pennsylvania railroad, died suddenly there, Saturday morning. He was stricken with appendicitis some days ago. He was born in Columbus 53 years ago and was a brother of Mrs. Grace Gardner and Miss Jessie McFarland, 242 West Eighth avenue and Mrs. Turney Keys, 92 West Ninth avenue, Columbus.

BRYAN STEPS INTO RING

Seeks Democratic Governorship Nomination—Hits Republicans.

Lincoln, Neb., April 24.—Former Governor Charles M. Bryan stirred Nebraska's political cauldron again today by simultaneously filing as a Democratic gubernatorial candidate and issuing a statement in which he censured the present state Republican administration for its "excessive expenditures." Mr. Bryan did not run for re-election in 1924, owing to his campaign for the vice presidency. Indications are that he will have a clear field in the race for the Democratic nomination.

Origin of Word "Boss"

The word "boss" is said to have come from the early Dutch settlers in New York, in whose language the word "baas" the "a" being pronounced like "a" in all—meant an overseer or an inspector.

Officials Called Upon to Classify Mahogany

When is mahogany not mahogany? The United States trade commission is called upon to solve this riddle, which has more than a little commercial importance. There are a number of dark, reddish tropical hardwoods that lay claim to this name, which came to mean in woods what "sterling" means on silver, not long after the discovery of America. The first woods to be called mahogany were from the tree genus known to botanists as Swietenia. The five species in this genus have no common English names, and their wood is known simply by locality names, like "Honduras mahogany," "Cuban mahogany," etc. Woods of similar appearance, though not necessarily of the genus Swietenia, are marketed under the trade names of "Philippine mahogany," "African mahogany" and similar titles. The federal trade commission is now trying to decide whether the use of the name "mahogany" should be restricted to the single genus that first made it popular, or whether it should be broadly interpreted to include all species now bearing it.

Fancy Jersey for Country Costumes

Some Winsome Garments Trimmed With Leather; Jumpers Are Longer.

In the Suzanne Talbot spring collection sport and country costumes are made of fancy jersey cloth in good autumn leaf shades of brown. They are trimmed with touches of leather, wooden buckles, lachings of fine leather like dog leashes, bands of grosgrain of various widths and colors and also with folds of leather of different shades. Jumper suits are many, says a Paris fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune, but the jumpers are longer than those of previous seasons, and they are usually worn with a belt.

Plaited skirts, shorter than ever, play an important part in the collection, and there is an amusing one in Scottish plaid taffetas which is worn with an eton jacket, starched white linen collar and cuffs accompanied by an attractive black felt hat with a hunter's quill.

The Bedouin cape-coats are both original and practical, for they have close-fitting hoods that cover the head and protect it from dust and wind in a manner that is ideal for long-distance motoring.

Color is cleverly used by Suzanne Talbot. She has an ensemble in three shades of green that could have been originated only by an artist. The soft, straight coat is of moss-green kasha. The two-piece dress of shantung has a jumper of apple green slashed at the hem to show a lining of jade that is arranged to form plaits under the tabs of apple green. The jade-green skirt has the same tabbed and plaited hem lined with the lighter green.

Grosgrain ribbon is again an effective trimming in the hands of Suzanne Talbot. In navy blue she uses it in wide bands applied in diamond shapes on a straight gown of navy jersey. Lighter blue is used in graduated widths to form horizontal stripes on another navy frock. In beige, navy blue and orange it forms a wide basque band round the hips of a third.

Quilted Effects Shown in Coats, Hats, Bags

The quilted coats, which we have seen in white and the pastel shades among the displays of southern wear, are now among the spring offerings.

They come in short and full lengths and in straight or flared models. A short red coat quilted in gold is further embellished with gold painting along black satin. The coat has a deep quilted border at bottom and sleeve edges stitched in silver and a gray satin lining. The two-in-one idea is carried out in a low red taffeta coat quilted in white stitching with the reverse side of white taffeta stitched in red.

The quilted silk hat also promises to be popular. The shapes are varied and particularly good. One prominent New York shop is featuring a smart draped toque in quilted satin with a handsome pouch bag to match.

Decorative Schemes for New Linen Handkerchiefs

Small and dainty are the new colored French linen handkerchiefs. Cut-out work, finely scalloped edges and floral motif corners furnish the decorative schemes. These small handkerchiefs also may be had with fancy applied designs, a touch of hand embroidery or a double hem of net. Handkerchiefs of a larger size and decidedly practical when of white linen, are finished with oddly cut appliqued colored borders, which supply a pleasing contrast. For evening use the gayest and most delicate of chiffons are favored. Floral effects, modern and futuristic designs and the conventional little field flowers are all represented in each instance, however, the color combinations are emphasized.

Berlin to Return Desk

That Jefferson Used

Boston.—The desk upon which Thomas Jefferson signed the Declaration of Independence, which, for 25 years has been shown in the Bismarck museum in Berlin, is now promised a fitting place in Independence hall. The piece traveled much since it was presented to Thomas Jefferson Coolidge of Boston, afterwards serving as a birthday gift to Prince Otto Bismarck on April 1, 1896.

Still pasted on the desk is a sheet of bleached paper, slightly frayed, with the inscription written by Jefferson:

"This was given to Mr. Coolidge as a mark of affection. It was made by Ben Randall, a cabinetmaker of Philadelphia. There are superstitions in politics as well as religion, and there may be a day when legions will assemble around their desk."

Dr. James F. Dickie, pastor of the American church in Berlin, and now on a visit to Detroit, found the desk. His quest for it stretched over a period of 15 years.
